SUPERINTENDENT PRESTON.

That Gentleman Succeeds the Late Mr. Westfall—A Good Selection.

Cecil A Preston, superintendent of the Erie and Canandaigua division, was appointed superintendent of the Eastern division of the Philadelphia & Erie and of the Susquehanna division of the Northern Central railway, to succeed E. B. Westfall, deceased. Mr. Preston is a thorough practical railroad man and has been in the service of the Pennsylvania company for a number of years and has always been considered a man of ability and sound judgment. He is well known over the different divisions which he will superintend having served as principal assistant engineer at Williamsport for a number of years.

Henry P. Lincoln, principal assistant engineer of the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley division under G. W. Creighton will succeed Mr. Preston as superintendent of the Elmira & Canandaigua division. The change of officials took place on April first and what other changes, if any will follow, have not as yet been made public.

To the Public.

After a temporary suspension from business, which was due to a condition already fully explained to the public, I desire to announce that I have my entire stock of furniture, carpets, etc., purchased for spring trade still on hand, which must be sold, and I take this opportunity to invite the public patronage to the disposal of the same. My stock has never been so large, so varied, and so elegant in every feature. If you need anything in my line, I shall much appreciate your patronage just now.

S. M. CAMPBELL.

Keith's Theatre.

Heading the program is Kara, whose repertoire includes many feats which have never been duplicated, even by Cinquevalli, and whose performance throughout is amusing, amazing and generally enjoyable. The three hours of mirth and melody will otherwise embrace Mr. Wilmar and company in the first production of "A Thief of the Night;" Sydney Grant in an original and highly entertaining monologue, which embraces imitations of noted actors.

Note From Iowa.

Samuel Condo, of Birmingham, Iowa, writes the Reporter under date of April 1st, that farmers have all their oats sown, and that plowing for corn had begun, and that most of the garden plots were spaded and potatoes planted. The day previous to writing it snowed, and heavy winds followed. The winter was very dry; little rain fell at any time, causing many wells to go dry.

[Just such notes as these the Reporter wants its patrons to write. Many of the Reporter readers know Mr. Condo and his family personally, and will enjoy reading a paragraph from him.]

Farm Work in South Dakota.

We have had a fine winter here; the finest I have ever seen. No snow to amount to anything and the roads like a floor. Farmers have been in the field since March 8th, and are almost through sowing wheat. People are coming in here pretty fast, and land is advancing in price. It is estimated that twenty thousand people will land in the Dakotas this year. Hired help is scarce; some farmers are paying $225.00 for eight months.

G. B. GOODHART.
White, S. Dakota, April 3.

Iron Works to Start.

The Valentine iron works, it is said on good authority, will resume operations in the near future. A number of men are already cleaning up about the works. An application for a charter will be made by Messrs. J. W. Gephart, F. H. Clemson, L. T. Munson, Archer Brown and William Sampson, who are prominently interested in the concern.

The Valentine works some time ago were sold at Sheriff's sale for $86,000, and it is said the new company paid $90,000 for the plant. The new corporation will be known as the Nittany Iron Company.

Hard Truth.

It's all right to blow your own horn, but care should be taken not to make it sound too much like a fire alarm. It is assuming too much for any man to say that his qualifications for a particular office are sufficient to warrant retention indefinitely, because other counties have seen fit to recognize special merit in educators. Overestimates of one's self are disgusting.

A SPRINGTIME PHILOSOPHER.

By Frank L. Stanton.

I kin tell w'en Springtime comin' by de mos' onfailin' signs;
Tain't de risin' sap what tingle ter de tip-top er de pines,
Or de fros' wha' lef' de furrer, or de larks a-flyin' low
Or de whistle or de pa'tridge kaze he love his sweetheart so!

But I sorter hez a feelin' what I dunno how ter call,
Dat ef I was a blossom I'd hang low, en never fall.
Dat ef Gabrul blowed his trumpet fer de sleepin' folks ter rise
I'd des feel too contented fer ter wake en rub my eyes!

Hit's somepin' in de elements—de blowin' er de breeze,
De listenin' er de lily fer de comin' er de bees;
De lazy river gwine 'long a-feelin' er his way
Ter de medders, en sweet places whar de honeysuckles stay.

De sun, he says "Good-mawnin'!" whar de fiel's is drench wid dew,
En I des ain't enterprisin' 'nuff ter tell 'im, "Same ter you!"
De trees, dey tells me "Howdy! We a-dressin' fer de show,
En soon we'll meet de mockin' birds en swing 'em high en low:"

But I never makes no answer! I des lays back so still En lazy in de sunshine—lak I los' my way en will!
Wid eye shet tight, en dreamin' in my app'inted place,
I wouldn't bresh a bluefly f'um de furrers in my face.

Oh, I knows w'en Spring's a-comin', en I done laid down my rule,
Dat I wuzn't bo'n fer plowin' en gee-hawin' er de mule
But fer listenin' ter de cattle bells 'cross daisies cool en deep,
Wid de feelin' what de trees hez w'en dey rocks de birds ter sleep!

Not Lacking in Courage.

By Laura Ellen Beale.

When Jack Stanley and Stacy Coleman went spinning along the boulevard behind his beautiful gray pacers, everybody envied him and the handsome girl who was soon to become his wife. How happy they looked, laughing and chatting gaily, as the pacers glided swiftly, almost noiselessly, by! As they drove out of "Grayson Place," where their new home was building, and turned again into the boulevard, the inspiring strains of martial music fel upon their ears, and the next moment a company of U. S. Regulars swept around the corner, marching toward them with military precision.

Jack was compelled to give his entire attention to the spirited team, which seemed determined to reach the next avenue by taking a short cut across the well kept lawns which lined the boulevard, but his affianced looked with great admiration at the stalwart form and sunbrowned faces of the soldiers. After they had passed she exclaimed,—

"What a grand sight! How nice men look in uniforms! Oh, I love soldiers!"

"Yes, that was fine looking body of men. We have a splendid lot of fellows in our army."

"Especially since the Spanish war, when so many of the home boys enlisted," said the girl. Then, without waiting for any reply, she asked abruptly, "Why didn't you volunteer, Jack?"

"Oh, I don't know, Stacey," he said. "I did not think it altogether necessary; there were enough felows without me. See how quickly they whipped the Spaniards."

"If I were a man," was the rejoinder and my country needed me, I would certainly respond, for I think it the duty of every able-bodied young man to fight for his flag. To me it shows a lack of proper spirit when he does not.

The blood surged hotly into Jack's face at Stacey's remark, for he thought of the hard battle he had fought when he unwillingly remained still while his friends and schoolfellows were enlisting. When at last they went away without him, it was one of the bitterest trials of his young life.

But how could he do otherwise? His father who seemed failing rapidly, needed his help—needed the strong arm of his only son to lean upon. And when his gentle mother added her tears and entreaties to Jack not to leave them, he gave up all thoughts of enlisting, and plunged more deeply into the management of his father's business. They were left alone some months later and Jack was thankful that he had remained at home to support and comfort his sorrowing mother.

And now Stacey, his promised wife, had intimated that it was lack of courage which had kept him back—that he was a coward! The words were like a knife thrust in his heart.

Both were silent for some time, the girl already regretting her foolish words, which were ranking in Jack's mind, and she was on the point of telling him that she was sorry for her fault when he unexpectedly asked,—

"Shall we drive further, Stacey?"

The girl proudly answered,—

"No, I am tired and would prefer going home."

So the drive ended; the "good-night" at the gate was spoken abruptly leaving both very unhappy over their first quarrel.

Just at this time the terrible street car strike which shook the solid old city of St. Louis to its foundation, was at its height. It was not felt very keenly in the West End, the riots and hostile demonstrations incident to the company's efforts to run its cars being confined chiefly to other parts of the city. So it was without thought of danger that Stacey Coleman boarded a car to go on an errand, little realizing that she was going directly into one of the districts where many of the strikers lived, and with whom most of the residents sympathized.

When she alighted from the car she was almost immediately surrounded by a crowd of hooting men and boys, who shouted vile epithets at her, and followed up their words with a volley of stones and mud.

The thoroughly frightened girl started to run away, the mob following closely. In her terror she sought refuge in the nearest open door, which proved to be that of a saloon, but from which she was roughly pushed back into the street again by the cowardly proprietor of the place. At that moment a man knocked off Stacey's hat. For a brief moment the mob turned its attention to the stylish piece of headgear, placing it upon a stick and raising it above their heads, where it was immediately pelted with mud.

At that instant a woman, who had seen from her window the beginning of the disgraceful affair, ran into the street, pleading with the mob to desist and not to attack the girl, but in vain, and both she and Stacey were struck by flying missles as the crowd closed in around them, hooting and jeering and yelling,—

"We'll teach her not to ride on the scab cars again!"

Then came a lull in the attack, followed by a sudden confusion in the mob of howling wretches, as a man rushed frantically among them, scattering them in every direction by furious blows about him, and cutting a wide path as he went to the rescue of that helpless woman. Stacey's heart beat wildly with gratitude to this stranger, who had with such magnificent courage rushed single handed into the fray, with only a stick, picked up as he ran, for a weapon.

As she looked, a prayer of thankfulness upon her lips, she saw the man reel from the effects of a blow upon the head, and sink to the ground. For an instant she had seen his face, white and ghastly, and a cry of horror escaped her; it was Jack, her Jack, whom she had but the evening before called a coward.

Some one in the crowd yelled, "The cops are coming!" And the ruffians fled into side streets and alleys, disappearing quickly, as a patrol wagon loaded with policemen, who had responded to a riot call, came around the corner.

In a moment the wounded man was lifted tenderly into the wagon and hurried away to the hospital. Stacey disheveled and tearful, was filled with dreadful misgivings concerning his welfare, and wanted to follow him and ascertain for herself his condition; but the brave woman who had come to her rescue opposed this, and succeeded in prevailing upon the anxious girl to wait until a conveyance could be had.

When the carriage came, Stacey gave instructions to the driver to call at the hospital and wait until the result of Jack's injuries could be learned She experienced a feeling of intense relief and happiness when told that he had received but a slight wound.

"He was only knocked senseless," explained the hospital surgeon, noting the look of anxiety on the girl's face. Then he added reassuringly, "He's come around all right, and as soon as they get the cut on his head fixed up, he'll be able to go home."

Stacey did not wait for Jack, nor did she leave her name, so when he was told of her call he could only surmise that it was she, but was not a little puzzled to know how she could have heard of the affair so soon.

That evening a note was handed to the young man, who sprang to his feet with a fierce look in his eyes, and an exclamation that would have shocked Stacey, if she could have heard it, when he learned that his sweetheart, the girl who was soon to be his wife was the victim of that cowardly assault, and to whose rescue he had hastened. He strode up and down the room with clenched fist, swearing dire vengeance upon the mob and particularly against the brute whom he had whom he had seen push the girl back into the very face of that awful crowd.

Then, regardless of the strips of the strips of court plaster upon his forehead, he seized his hat and rushed away to Stacey's home.

It was a very tearful and penitent face that was upturned to receive his kiss, and a sobbing girl clung to him, brokenly imploring his forgiveness for her cruel words of the evening before.

"You are right," she said after a while. "It requires courage to be a soldier, but sometimes it requires higher courage, not to be one. If I——"

He stopped her with a kiss.—Waverley Magazine.

The University of Cairo.

A queer university that at Cairo with its 10,000 students! Its central square is open to the sun; about it are separate "riwaks," or porches, for each of the twenty-four recognized nations of Islam; in each riwak, youth from all the Moslem world study to chant the Koran, to write beautiful Arabic script, and in the end to be doctors, lawyers, kadis, rulers. Each nation has its own ceremonial way of doing so simple a thing as drinking water. Nor are sect differences a trivial matter. The schism between the Sunni and the Sufi is so bitter that each deems it duty to pollute the holy wells and sacred places of the other, though if detected the penalty is death. Minor variations in belief and custom are numberless. There are Moslems who wear the fez, the turban, the tarboosh, or no head covering at all; those who bid women veil themselves and those who do not; those who reek of garlic and those who hold onions accursed, because, as they claim Mohammed never ate them. And the plain man needs guidance.—The Era.

NAMING A HOOSIER TOWN.

The Story an Apostrophe Tells on a Railway Station Sign.

Indiana is full of towns with queer names. But the queerest of them all has so far been left to languish in undeserved obscurity. People who are acquainted with that portion of Darkest Indiana, which lies in the immediate vicinity of Crawfordsville must have seen on the sign board of a little railroad station, as they rushed by on a limited train, this astonishing name:

H'TOWN.

Behind that apostrophe lies the story of the joke which a rich old Indiana farmer played on the directors of a great railroad company. The farmer in question owned several thousand acres of land in one body. When the railroad was built it was found necessary to cut through his land. The right of way agents went to the old farmer and asked him to set a price on a strip running through his farm a few hundred feet wide.

He laughed at them and said his land was not for sale at any price. He didn't believe in railroads anyhow and didn't want one running through his property. They offered him a huge price for the land, for they had found other property owners in the vicinity reasonable and did not care to start any condemnation suits unless it was absolutely necessary. But the old farmer would not listen to them. His income was twice as large as he cared to spend, and he rather enjoyed the position of blocking all the efforts of a great corporation.

The claim agents made up their minds that they would have to start a suit, and were about ready to bring it when they were surprised to get a letter from the old farmer.

"If you'll let me name the town you are going to build on my land," he said, "I'll give you all the land you need."

They accepted his terms with glee. Of course they expected that his vanity would lead him to name the town after himself, and they were quite prepared for that emergency. But he fooled them. A written agreement was drawn up and signed and the deeds passed. Then they asked him for his name. The old man grinned broadly.

"We'll call it Helltown," he said.

They argued with him until they saw it was useless. They could not back out, for the papers had already been signed. Then they decided they would get even in another way. They elided the second, third, and fourth letters of the name and put in their place an innocent apostrophe. And so the name of the village is "H'town" to this day.—Chicago Tribune.

INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.

Bursting a Strong Cask With Half a Pint of Water.

That a small quantity of water, say half a pint, may be made to burst a strong cask seems a startling statement to make, and yet is it true. It is a well-known law of physics that the pressure exerted by liquids increases in proportion to their depth. Suppose, therefore, that we have a strong cask filled with water and standing on end. The staves of this cask may be made to burst apart by adding a very small quantity of water to what is already in the cask. As the cask is already full, some way of adding the water must be devised. To do this a hole is bored in the end or head of the cask, and a long tube of small diameter is inserted upright. At the upper end of the tube is a small funnel into which water is poured until the tube becomes full, and when that point is reached the cask will burst. This seems almost incredible, but it is only a demonstration of the law that has been cited. When the water is poured into the tube it unites with the water in the cask, and the depth of the water is several times as great as that in the cask alone. The fact that there is only a small quantity of water in the tube makes no difference, for it is now one body, and its depth is gauged from the top of the tube to the bottom of the cask.

As a matter of fact, this experiment is only an artificial reproduction of what we know takes place in nature. Some of her greatest convulsions are caused by this very process. Suppose, for example, that there is a great mass of rock, under which there is a cavity filled with water that has no outlet. Suppose, moreover, that there is a crack extending from the surface of the ground through this mass of rock to the water filled cavity underneath. A rock in this condition is a common thing in nature, the crack being caused by some disturbance of the earth, or its splitting in the natural order of things. Now when it rains enough to fill that crack, thus increasing the depth of the water in the cavity the pressure will become so great that the rock will be torn into a hundred fragments. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

GARDEN AND FARM

SPOILING A HEIFER CALF.

You can spoil a good heifer calf by wrong feeding very quickly. You can fatten it and you can starve it. The happy mean should be found. Ruin the digestion and you might as well send the calf to the market. Wrong feeding of the calf may make the cow a poor feeder and, consequently, a poor producer. It doesn't cost much more to keep a yearling well through its first winter than to keep it otherwise, and it is the first winter that tells very largely on the cow.

POULTRY AILMENTS AND REMEDIES.

For Roup: Separate the sick from the well, put former in warm, dry quarters, inject camphorated sweet oil into their nostrils and throat. Give fresh water and nourishing food.

For frosted wattles or combs, prepare a salve of vaseline (one pound), spirits of turpentine, kerosene, oil of tar, and oil of sassafras, one spoonful each.

To prevent egg eating in fowls, make a paste of flour, red pepper, mustard and water; put into some empty shells, and place them where the hens will find them. One dose is enough.

For feather pulled fowls, make an ointment of lard and sulphur, and rub on the bare spots if the feathers have come out because of parasites. There is no "positive cure" for fowls that pull feathers except the hatchet applied to the neck.

What is frequently supposed to be cholera is nothing more or less than indigestion. It may be caused by feeding too concentrated feeds and lack of grit and the drinking of impure water. Sharp grit is a necessity, and oyster shells furnish it.—New York Tribune.

TAPPING MAPLE TREES.

There are some fine points to be observed even in such a simple matter as tapping a sugar maple tree. Here are five points, just for instance.

Point 1. Only a sharp bit should be use—one that will make a clean-cut hole.

Point 2. The hole need not be more than three inches deep. The investigations of the Vermont Experiment Station have shown that hardly any sap comes from a greater depth.

Point 3. The hole should be carefully cleaned of chips, because even a very small quantity of waste matter will clog the spout, obstruct the flow of sap, and seriously reduce the yield of sugar.

Point 4. A spout should be chosen of such pattern as will allow the freest flow of sap. It should interfere with the wood tissue of the tree as little as possible. The bark, rather than the wood, should play an important part in holding the spout firm.

Point 5. The spout should be strong enough, and its hold on the tree firm enough, so that it will safely support the sap bucket. Moreover the spout should be easy to insert and easy to remove. The various spouts commonly sold at the hardware stores differ materially in their merits when judged by the foregoing tests. The sugar maker will do well to examine them all carefully before buying his supply for the coming season.—The Cultivator.

SKILL IN MILKING.

Milking is an operation which requires skill, as it has an important effect on the amount and quality of milk given. Dairymen know that there are as great difference between milkers as between cows, and that cows will do much better with good milkers than with others. Indeed, good cows are often almost ruined by poor milkers.

The milker should avoid handling the cow more than is necessary and he should make it a rule to do his work quickly and thoroughly. He should never go from a sick to a well cow without first cleansing his hands. The habit of wetting the hands with milk is filthy in the extreme, and should never be practised. Some people think it necessary, but this is a mistake. The hands should be kept dry. If they are not it is impossible to prevent drops of milk from constantly falling from them into the pail.

The pail should be held close to the udder, so as to expose the milk to the air as little as possible. The further the streams fall and the more they spray the more dirt and bacteria they collect. Contamination from the fore milk must be avoided by discarding the first few streams drawn, or less than a gill in all. This entails little loss, as the first milk drawn is always poor in butter fat, and if it happens to be badly contaminated, as is frequently the case, much injury and trouble may be saved.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

ALKALI RESISTING CROPS.

Large areas of the West are covered with soils impregnated with alkali to such an extent that practically no plants of any kind can grow on them. At present such lands are desert wastes, as no crops have been discovered that will blossom and mature on a soil containing even six-tenths of one per cent. of alkali. The Department of Agriculture, working along the line that has been so successful with other crops, is endeavoring to produce a forage plant that can be successfully grown on these waste regions. This it is hoped to accomplish by a careful cross-breeding of alkali-resisting plants. One of the agricultural explorers sent out by the Department to scour the world in search of new and useful plants suitable for American conditions recently discovered in Algeria a species of alfalfa which grows on a soil containing normally four per cent. of alkali. Laboratory experiments have proved that different plants of the same species vary in their resisting powers, some of one injurious element, some of other. This holds true in the case of alkali-resisting plants. Occasionally here and there a single plant appears to make headway where all the surrounding plants either fail to mature or simply die after germinating. A systematic selection of alkali-resisting plants is accordingly being made, with the Algerian plant as a factor, and it is hoped that a resistant variety will finally be developed. Similar selections are also being made with wheat, barley and alfalfa This work constitutes one of the most important at present occupying the attention of the Bureau of Plant Industry.

THE HORSE IN SPRINGTIME.

It should be remembered that the horse, as usually kept upon the farm during the winter comes out in the springtime weakened through lack of work, and somewhat out of condition otherwise. If he has been used at all, it has been for the purpose of getting up a little wood, or of driving to the postoffice or to church now and then. His muscles are soft and flabby, and he needs toning up before he is put to hard work. The horse in all these aspects is a good deal like his owner; and any man knows that he cannot at first stand it in spring to do a hard day's work. He must come to it gradually. So with the horse. He ought not to be compelled to work all day long on the plow or the harrow, before his muscles have become hard and his strength is fairly regained. A few hours at a time on the plow, then a long rest at noon, followed by another short period of work, is all that should be demanded of him. Then, too, like the man, the horse comes out of winter quarters with his system clogged through heavy feeding. He should be given a good condition powder for a week or two to relieve him of the accumulated waste of material. A little experimenting on one's own account will enable each farmer to determine for himself what medicine is best adapted to his individual use. A little foresight in these matters will make much difference in the service the horse will be able to render during the season. If he be given good wholesome food, protected from taking cold by being blanketed when warm, is carefully groomed and rubbed down at night as well as in the morning, and used fairly during working hours, there is no reason why he should not speedily regain the muscular strength lost in winter, and be able to do his accustomed work in every place.—E. L. Vincent, in The Epitomist.

SUCCESSFUL WORK AGAINST SCALE.

The time is approaching for heroic treatment and energetic work for combating the much dreaded insect, the San Jose scale. With the indolent and half industrious grower of fruits it is to be dreaded, for with their system of attention it is certain to put them out of business. With the observing, careful and attentive grower there is no more to dread from the San Jose scale than many other diseases he has to keep constantly at. We have had it in our orchard some time, but it gives us no more concern than the borer. The question arises as to the best method of fighting the little pest. Like all other things pertaining to the fruit business, every grower has his own system and considers it the best. For the benefit of those who have discovered they have the scale, I will give our system, which is very effectual with us.

We have tried all the known methods and systems and find the most practical method is kerosene and water mixed by a pump made for that purpose. To be successful, one must be accurate and not have a pump that is just as liable to give 100 per cent. oil or 100 per cent. water as the exact amount wanted. This irregularity is not only dangerous but expensive. We have experimented considerably with crude petroleum and are well pleased with the results made in the spring. We will again use crude petroleum for our spring spraying, but do not consider it good for midsummer work.

We have fifteen combination pumps for water and oil, with double discharge nozzles. We expect to run with full force just before the buds swell next spring, using a 20 per cent. solution of crude petroleum. It is absolutely necessary you get a genuine crude oil of not less than forty-three degrees test. It may be either green or amber, but must be a paraffin oil. The spraying must be done on clear, bright, sunny days in order to aid evaporation. We know of nothing more important to follow than the latter. For a test we have used 100 per cent. kerosene on a bright, sunny day on a peach tree, and seen no evil effects, while on the other hand we have killed trees with fifteen per cent. on a heavy, cloudy day. Get only the best combination pump, and be sure it is always working correctly. Use twenty per cent. kerosene and water, or crude petroleum, which we prefer, and spray just before the buds swell in the spring. In midsummer spray with ten per cent. kerosene and always do the work on dry, bright, sunny days.—J. R. Williams, in American Agriculturist.

The American Crowds.

While he was still in this country Prince Henry was reported to have said handsome things about the American crowds. Now that he has arrived home they are still his theme. "Nowhere else in the world are the crowds so well behaved as in America, and they themselves are their own controllers." The point of the compliment to the German mind will be found in the last sentence. No crowd in Germany, on an occasion similar to the demonstrations which attended Prince Henry here, would be suffered to be its own controller. Soldiers by the thousand would control it. It would not be safe to let a crowd be uncontrolled, not safe for the guests, the people gathered to see, not safe for the people themselves. There are many other things besides German crowds that have to be controlled by show of force. A people which governs itself, choosing the administrators of the laws, from highest to lowest, gets a training in self-control that serves upon all occasions of ordinary excitement.

The Wrong Funeral.

"Look here, my dear," said the man to his wife as he glanced through the obituary notices in the paper, "here is poor Aunt Jane dead; she is going to be buried this evening, and I ought to go to the funeral."

"Of course you should," said Dear; "you must get ready at once and hurry off."

In ten minutes the man was on the street car and in half an hour in the church where the service was to be held. It was a long time since he had seen Aunt Jane (he was a busy man), and he had almost forgotten her existence. But as he sat there in the big bare church a feeling of sadness stole over him. He remembered the early days of his childhood, when Aunt Jane was a frequent visitor at the house, and the many little kindnesses she had done for him. His childhood seemed so far away; there had been so many changes since, so many of the people associated with it had passed away, and, as he thought of it all, the tears rose to his eyes. The ceremony proceeded and the mourners at last passed up to the front for a last look at the face of the dear one. The man, his eyes still moist, stopped suddenly for a second as he looked upon the quiet face, and then he looked again. He had not seen Aunt Jane for a long time, but he knew her well enough to know that while this was a woman of about the same age and evidently the same name, it was not Aunt Jane. He drew a long breath as he passed down the aisle and out into the street, and now he does not attend funerals without a previous investigation.

A Nasty Practice.

A nasty practice is what the Chicago Inter Ocean calls the pasting of repeated layers of wall paper, one upon another, thus covering up the filth and germs of disease that may be propagated in the very absorbent and decaying mass of flour paste, paper, animal glue, colors, etc.

They give opinions of eminent health officers and sanitarians, urging that such practice should be stopped by legal enactment, and also take occasion to say that these sanitarians recommend Alabastine as a durable, pure and sanitary coating for walls.

HEAVENLY LIFE.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Says the Busiest Place in the Universe is Heaven.

A Glimpse of the King's Palace—An Impressive Half Hour in Eternity.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In the following discourse, prepared by Dr. Talmage before his illness, a vivid glimpse of the splendors and glories of heavenly life is presented; text, Revelation viii, 1, "There was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour."

The busiest place in the universe is heaven. It is the centre from which all good influences start; it is the goal at which all good results arrive. The Bible represents it as active with wheels and wings and orchestras and processions mounted or charioted. But my text describes a space when the wheels ceased to roll and the trumpets to sound and the voices to chant. The riders on the white horses reined in their charges. The doxologies were hushed and processions halted. The hand of arrest was upon all the splendor. "Stop heaven!" cried an omnipotent voice, and it stopped. For thirty minutes everything celestial stood still. "There was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour."

From all we can learn it is the only time heaven ever stopped. It does not stop as other cities for the night, for there is no night there. It does not stop for a plague, for the inhabitant never says, "I am sick." It does not stop for bankruptcies, for its inhabitants never fail. It does not stop for impassable streets, for there are no fallen snows or sweeping freshets. What, then, stopped it for thirty minutes? Grotius and Professor Stuart think it was at the time of the destruction of Jerusalem. Mr. Lord thinks it was in the year 311, between the close of the Diocletian persecution and the beginning of the wars by which Constantine gained the throne. But that was all a guess, though a learned and brilliant guess. I do not know when it was and I do not care when it was, but of the fact that such an interregnum of sound took place I am certain. "There was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour."

And, first of all, we learn that God and all heaven then honored silence. The longest and widest domain that ever existed is that over which stillness was queen. For an eternity there had not been a sound. World making was a later day occupation. For unimaginable ages it was a mute universe. God was the only being, and as there was no one to speak to there was no utterance. But that silence has all been broken up in to worlds, and it has become a noisy universe. Worlds in upheaval, worlds in congelation, worlds in conflagration, worlds in revolution.

If geologists are right—and I believe they are—there has not been a moment of silence since this world began its travels, and the crashing and the splitting and the uproar and the hubbub are ever in progress. But when among the supernals a voice cried, "Hush!" and for half an hour heaven was still, silence was honored. The full power of silence many of us have yet to learn. We are told that when Christ was arraigned "He answered not a word." That silence was louder than any thunder that ever shook the world. Oftentimes when we are assailed and misrepresented the mightiest thing to say is to say nothing, and the mightiest thing to do is to do nothing. Those people who are always rushing into print to get themselves set right accomplish nothing but their own chagrin. Silence! Do right and leave the results with God. Among the grandest lessons the world has ever learned are the lessons of patience taught by those who endured uncomplainingly personal or domestic or political injustice. Stronger than any bitter or sarcastic or revengeful answer is the patient silence.

The famous Dr. Morrison, of Chelsea, achieved as much by his silent patience as by his pen and tongue. He had asthma that for twenty-five years brought him out of his couch at 2 o'clock each morning.

In my text heaven spared thirty minutes, but it will never again spare one minute. In worship in earthly churches where there are many to take part we have to counsel brevity, but how will heaven get on rapidly enough to let one hundred and forty-four thousand get through each with his own story and then one hundred and forty-four million and then one hundred and forty-four billion and then one hundred and forty-four trillion?

Not only are all the triumphs of the past to be commemorated, but all the triumphs to come. Not only what we now know of God, but what we will know of Him after everlasting study of the deific. If my text had said there was silence in heaven for thirty days, I would not have been startled at the announcement, but it indicates thirty minutes.

Why, there will be so many friends to hunt up, so many of the greatly good and useful that we will want to see, so many of the inscrutable things of earth we will need explained, so many exciting earthly experiences we will want to talk over, and all the other spirits and all the ages will want the same, that there will be no more opportunity for cessation.

How busy we will be kept in having pointed out to us the heroes and heroines that the world never fully appreciated—the yellow fever and cholera doctors who died, not flying from their posts; the female nurses who faced pestilence in the lazarettos; the railroad engineers who stayed at their places in order to save the train, though they themselves perished. Hubert Goffin, the master miner, who, landing from the bucket at the bottom of the mine just as he heard the waters rush in and when one jerk of the rope would have lifted him into safety, put in the bucket a blind miner who wanted to go to his sick child, and jerked the rope for him to be pulled up, crying, "Tell them the water has burst in and we are probably lost, but we will seek refuge at the other end of the right gallery," and then giving the command to the other miners till they digged themselves so near out that the people from the outside could come to their rescue. The multitudes of men and women who got no crown on earth we will want to see when they get their crown in heaven. I tell you heaven will have no more half hours to spare.

Besides that, heaven is full of children. They are in the vast majority. No child on earth who amounts to anything can be kept quiet half an hour, and how are you going to keep five hundred million of them quiet half an hour? You know heaven is much more of a place than it was when that recess of thirty minutes occurred. Its population has quadrupled, sextupled, centupled.

Heaven has more on hand, more of rapture, more of knowledge, more of intercommunication, more of worship. The most thrilling place we have ever been in is stupid compared with that, and, if we now have no time to spare, we will then have no eternity to spare. Silence in heaven only half an hour!

My subject also impresses me with the immortality of a half hour. That half hour mentioned in my text is more widely known than any other period in the calendar of heaven. None of the whole hours of heaven is measured off, none of the years, none of the centuries. Of the millions of ages past and the millions of ages to come not one is especially measured off in the Bible. But the half hour of my text is made immortal.

The only part of eternity that was ever measured by the earthly timepiece was measured by the minute hand of my text. Oh, the half hours! They decide everything. I am not asking what you will do with the years or months or days of your life, but what of the half hours? Tell me the history of your half hours and I will tell you the story of your whole life in eternity.

The right or wrong things you can think in thirty minutes, the right or wrong things you can say in thirty minutes, the right or wrong things you can do in thirty minutes are glorious or baleful, inspiring or desperate.

Look out for the fragments of time. They are pieces of eternity. It was the half hours between shoeing horses that made Elihu Burritt, the learned blacksmith, the half hours between professional calls as a physician that made Abercrombie the Christian philosopher, the half hours between his duties as schoolmaster that made Salmon P. Chase Chief Justice, the half hours between shoe lasts that made Henry Wilson Vice-President of the United States, the half hours between canalboats that made James A. Garfield President.

The half hour a day for good books or bad books, the half hour a day for prayer or indolence, the half hour a day for helping others or blasting others, the half hour before you go to business and the half hour after you return from business—that makes the difference between the scholar and the ignoramus, between the Christian and the infidel, between the saint and the demon, between triumph and catastrophe, between heaven and hell.

The most tremendous things of your life and mine were certain half hours. The half hour when in the parsonage of a country minister I resolved to become a Christian then and there, the half hour when I decided to become a preacher of the gospel, the half hour when I first realized that my son was dead, the half hour when I stood on the top of my house in Oxford street and saw our church burn, the half hour in which I entered Jerusalem, the half hour in which I stopped on Mount Calvary, the half hour in which I stood on Mars Hill and about ten or fifteen other half hours are the chief times of my life.

You may forget the name of the exact years or most of the important events of your existence, but those half hours, like the half hour of my text, will be immortal. I do not query what you will do with the twentieth century, I do not query what you will do with this year, but what will you do with the next half hour?

Upon that hinges your destiny, and during that some of you will receive the gospel and make complete surrender, and during that others of you will make final and fatal rejection of the full and free and urgent and impassioned offer of life eternal.

Oh, that the next half hour might be the most glorious thirty minutes of your earthly existence!

Then there are those whose hearing is so delicate that they get no satisfaction when you describe the crash of the eternal orchestra, and they feel like saying, as a good woman in Hudson, N. Y., said after hearing me speak of the mighty chorus of heaven, "That must be a great heaven, but what will become of my poor head?" Yes, this half hour of my text is a still experience. "There was silence in heaven for half an hour."

You will find the inhabitants all at home. Enter the King's palace and take only a glimpse, for we have only thirty minutes for all heaven. "Is that Jesus?" "Yes." Just under the hair along His forehead is the mark of a wound made by a bunch of twisted brambles, and His foot on the throne has on the round of His instep another mark of a wound made by a spike, and a scar on the palm of the right hand and a scar on the palm of the left hand. But what a countenance! What a smile! What a grandeur! What a loveliness! What an overwhelming look of kindness and grace! Why, He looks as if He had redeemed a world! But come on, for our time is short. Do you see that row of palaces? That is the Apostolic row. Do you see that long reach of architectural glories? That is Martyr row. Do you see that immense structure? That is the biggest house in heaven; that is "the house of many mansions." Do you see that wall? Shade your eyes against its burning splendor, for that is the wall of heaven, jasper at the bottom and amethyst at the top. See this river rolling through the heart of the great metropolis? That is the river concerning which those who once lived on the banks of the Hudson or the Alabama or the Rhine or the Shannon say, "We never saw the like of this for clarity and sheen." That is the chief river of heaven—so bright, so wide, so deep. But you ask, "Where are the asylums for the old?" I answer, "The inhabitants are all young." "Where are the hospitals for the lame?" "They are all agile." "Where are the infirmaries for the blind and deaf?" "They all see and hear." "Where are the almshouses for the poor?" "They are all multimillionaires." "Where are the inebriate asylums?" "Why, there are no saloons." "Where are the graveyards?" "Why, they never die."

"Oh, let me go in and see them!" you say. No, you cannot go in. There are those who would never consent to let you come out again. You say, "Let me stay here in this place where they never sin, where they never suffer, where they never part." No, no! Our time is short, our thirty minutes are almost gone. Come on! We must get back to earth before this half hour of heavenly silence breaks up, for in your mortal state you cannot endure the pomp and splendor and resonance when this half hour of silence is ended. The day will come when you can see heaven in full blast, but not now. I am now only showing you heaven at the dullest half hour of all eternities. Come on! There is something in the celestial appearance which makes me think that the half hour of silence will soon be over. Yonder are the white horses being hitched to chariots, and yonder are seraphs fingering harps as if about to strike them into symphony, and yonder are conquerors taking down from the blue halls of heaven the trumpets of victory. Remember we are mortal yet and cannot endure the full roll of heavenly harmonies and cannot endure even the silent heaven for more than half an hour.

Hark! The clock in the tower of heaven begins to strike, and the half hour is ended. Descend! Come back! Come down till your work is done. Shoulder a little longer your burdens. Fight a little longer your battles. Weep a little longer your griefs. And then take heaven not in its dullest half hour, but in its mightiest pomp, and, instead of taking it for thirty minutes, take it world without end.

But how will you spend the first half hour of your heavenly citizenship after you have gone in to stay? After your prostration before the throne in worship of Him who made it possible for you to get there at all I think the rest of your first half hour in heaven will be passed in receiving your reward if you have been faithful. I have a strangely beautiful book containing the pictures of the medals struck by the English Government in honor of great battles. These medals are pinned over the heart of the returned heroes of the army on great occasions, the royal family present and the royal bands playing—the Crimean medal, the medal of the mutiny, the Victoria cross, the Waterloo medal. In your first half hour in heaven in some way you will be honored for the earthly struggles in which you won the day. Stand up before all the royal house of heaven and receive the insignia while you are announced as victor over the drafts and freshets of the farm field, victor over the temptations of the Stock Exchange, victor over professional allurements, victor over domestic infelicities, victor over mechanic's shop, victor over the storehouse, victor over home worriments, victor over physical distresses, victor over hereditary depressions, victor over sin and death and hell. Take the badge that celebrates those victories through our Lord Jesus Christ. Take it in the presence of all the galleries, saintly, angelic and divine, while all heaven chants, "These are they who came out of great tribulation and had their robes washed and made white in the blood of the Lamb."

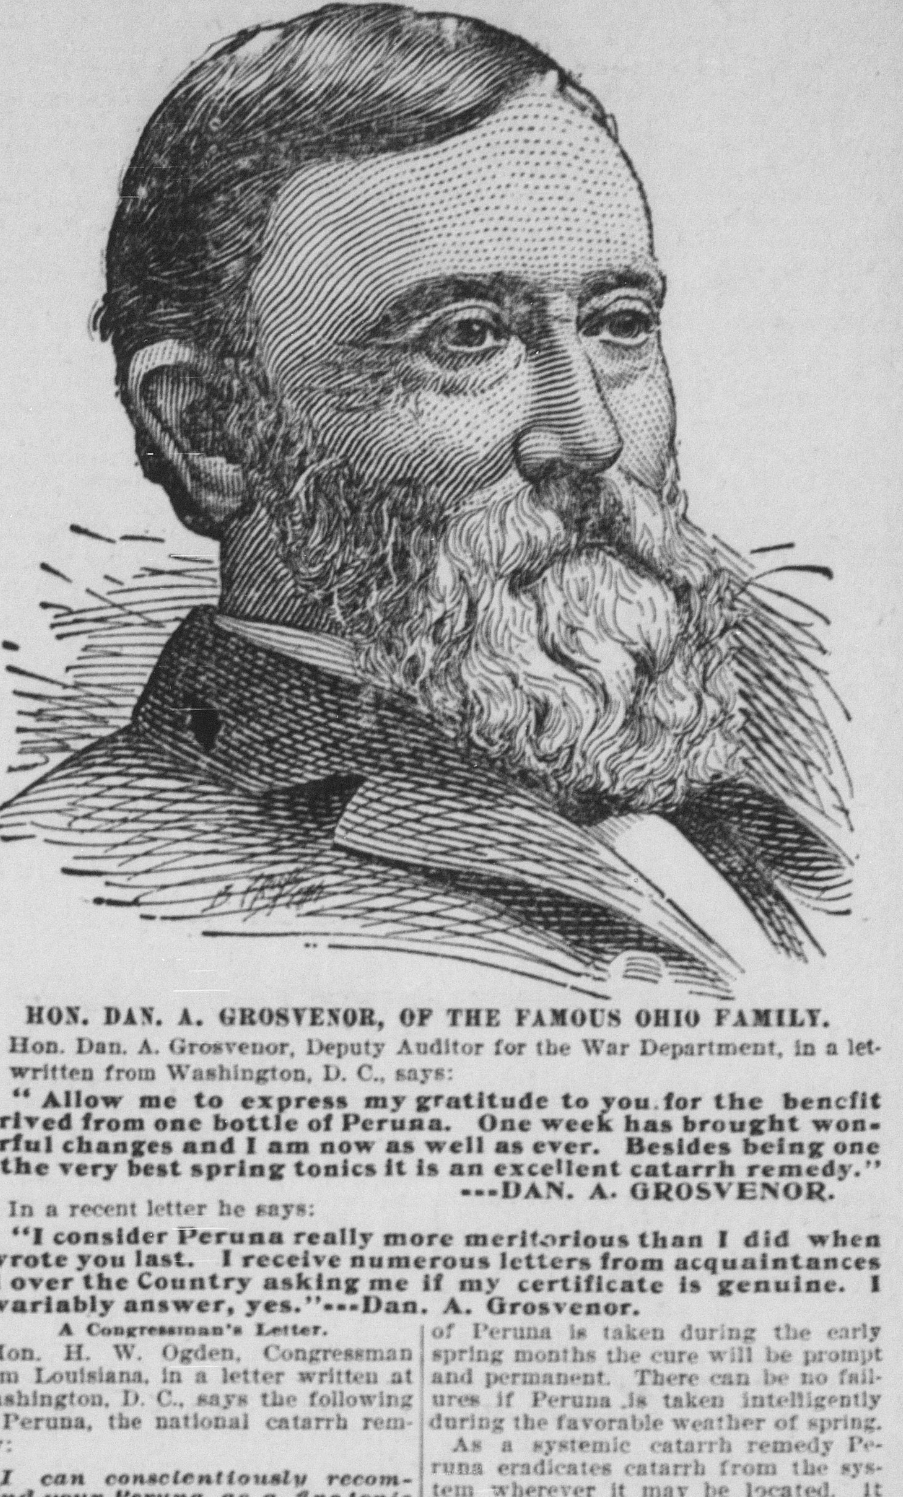
DAN GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Pe-ru-na is an Excellent Spring Catarrh Remedy---I am as Well as Ever."



HON. DAN. A. GROSVENOR, OF THE FAMOUS OHIO FAMILY.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy." ---DAN. A. GROSVENOR.

In a recent letter he says:

"I consider Peruna really more meritorious than I did when I wrote you last. I receive numerous letters from acquaintances all over the Country asking me if my certificate is genuine. I invariably answer, yes." ---Dan. A. Grosvenor.

A Congressman's Letter.

Hon. H. W. Ogden, Congressman from Louisiana, in a letter written at Washington, D. C., says the following of Peruna, the national catarrh remedy:

"I can conscientiously recommend your Peruna as a fine tonic and all around good medicine to those who are in need of a catarrh remedy. It has been commended to me by people who have used it, as a remedy particularly effective in the cure of catarrh. For those who need a good catarrh medicine I know of nothing better."—H. W. Ogden.

Treat Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the time to treat catarrh. Cold, wet winter weather often retards a cure of catarrh. If a course of Peruna is taken during the early spring months the cure will be prompt and permanent. There can be no failures if Peruna is taken intelligently during the favorable weather of spring.

As a systemic catarrh remedy Peruna eradicates catarrh from the system wherever it may be located. It cures catarrh of the stomach or bowels with the same certainty as catarrh of the head.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Easy to Accomplish.

"I am tired and sick of that fellow Dombell, and I want to cut his acquaintance. I want to do something that will keep him from ever speaking to me again."

"Yes?"

"Yes; and for that purpose I am going to take advantage of the first opportunity to lend him $5."

The Promoters.

"Let us make the capital stock $1,000,000,000," said the first promoter.

"All right," said the second, who was preparing the prospectus on the typewriter.

"Will it be hard to increase that capital?" asked the first.

"No, indeed. All I have to do is to hit this off key a few more times."

Lost His Rheumatism By the use of a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil.

SERGEANT JEREMIAH MAHER, of Ardcath, Royal Irish Constabulary, says: "My friend, Mr. Thomas Hand, has been a great sufferer from rheumatism in the back and joints for the last four years, during which time he has employed many different methods of treatment, but obtained no relief whatever, and for the last two years has been unable to walk without a stick, and sometimes two sticks, and was in great pain constantly. I induced him to procure a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, which he applied with the most astonishing and marvellous effects. Before he had finished using the contents of the first bottle he could walk readily without the aid of a stick, and after a few applications from the second bottle he was free from pain, and has been ever since; and although fifty years of age and a farmer, he can walk and work without experiencing any pain or difficulty whatever."

VOGELER'S CURATIVE COMPOUND, the great remedy which makes people well; it is made from the formula of an eminent London physician. Send to St. Jacobs Oil, Ltd., Baltimore, Md., for a free sample bottle.

R·I·P·A·N·S

I have used Ripans for several years in my general practice as a first-class extempore remedy for late dinners' distress, and have carried them in my vest pocket in the little paper cartons. At banquets and at lodge meetings I have often passed one to an adjacent brother.

At druggists.
The Five-Cent packet is enough for an ordinary occasion. The family bottle, 60 cents, contains a supply for a year.

Good For Rheumatism.

Last fall I was taken with a very severe attack of muscular rheumatism which caused me great pain and annoyance. After trying several prescriptions and rheumatic cures, I decided to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I had seen advertised in the South Jerseyman. After two applications of this remedy, I was much better, and after using one bottle, was completely cured.—Sallie Harris, Salem, N. J. For sale by J. F. Smith, H. F. Rossman, J. B. Fisher & Sons.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

TOUR TO THE YELLOWSTONE PARK.

Exceptionally Low Rates Offered by the Pennsylvania Railroad on Account of National Educational Association Convention.

The reduced rates authorized by the transcontinental railroads on account of the Annual Convention of the National Educational Association, to be held in Minneapolis, July 7 to 11, 1902, have enabled the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to offer to those contemplating attendance at this convention an opportunity, under the direction of its popular personally-conducted Tourist System, not only of visiting the beautiful city in which the convention is to be held, and participating in the deliberations of the convention, but also of visiting the Yellowstone National Park, at a cost impossible under ordinary conditions of travel.

The Yellowstone Park is never more attractive than during the month of July, and the tourists under the care of the Pennsylvania Railroad will be afforded the fullest opportunity of visiting all its unique attractions, including the Mammoth Hot Springs, the Geysers, the beautiful Lake, and the Grand Canon of the Yellowstone.

The tour will leave New York and Philadelphia, Saturday, July 5, and return Sunday, July 20. Round-trip tickets, covering all necessary expenses for the entire trip, including one berth in Pullman sleeper, will be sold at rate of $150 from all points on the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Pittsburg. When two persons occupy one berth, the rate will be $142 for each person. Rates from Pittsburg will be $5 less than above.

Tourists will use a special train over the entire trip, with the exception of the six days devoted to the tour of the Park, when stages and the fine hotels maintained in the Park will be utilized. This special train will consist of a Pullman dining car, sleeping cars, and an observation car, all of the highest grade, and the passengers will find them fully as comfortable and convenient as the best hotels. During the three days at the convention in Minneapolis, July 7 to 9, inclusive, this palatial train will be at the command of the tourists, obviating the necessity of securing accommodations at hotels.

The beauties of the Yellowstone National Park, most aptly termed Nature's Wonderland, must be seen to be appreciated. From the top of the stages in which the tour of the Park is made, there is spread out before the traveler a constantly changing panorama of wonders—snow-crowned mountains; tumbling and tossing rivers; Yellowstone Lake, like a great blue sea nestled amongst the beetling crags, at an altitude above that of the summit of Mt. Washington; the curious natural springs, where chemical deposits glisten in the sun's rays with all the colors of the rainbow; and the Geysers, ever presenting a scene of varied charm and awe-inspiring wonder.

The accommodations on this tour will necessarily be limited, and intending tourists should apply early in order to secure reservations of space. A detailed itinerary is in course of preparation, and all inquiries regarding accommodations should be addressed to Geo. W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pennsylvania Railroad, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, Pa.

Better Than Pills.

The question has been asked, "In what way are Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets superior to pills?" Our answer is: They are easier and more pleasant to take, more mild and gentle in effect and more reliable as they can always be depended upon. Then they cleanse and invigorate the stomach and leave the bowels in a natural condition, while pills are more harsh in effect and their use is often followed bo constipation. For sale by J. F. Smith, H. F. Rossman, J. B. Fisher & Sons.

Strange Things.

Some people work to live, others live to work, and some do not work at all and yet live, while some live off other people, and others can live on dances. Work before play; business before pleasure. Sunshine after a rain makes every thing flourish; spring is here, with the merry birds to greet us and merrily on we bound, eating, dancing all the time and drinking lager beer and wine. There are all kinds of people in the world; if the working class was set free from work and the sports to take their places, there would surely be some homely faces.

PRESIDENT GOES TO CHARLESTON

Mr. Roosevelt Will Spend Two Days at the Exposition.

SECRET SERVICE MEN ABOARD TRAIN

A Large Crowd at the Station to See Him and His Party Start For Dixie Land—The President in Good Spirits and Prepared to Enjoy His Trip—Stops Made at Various Places.

Washingtton, D. C., (Special).—President Roosevelt and party left for Charleston, S. C., Monday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. The party traveled in a special train over the Southern Railroad.

There was a large crowd at the station. The President was driven to the Sixth street entrance, instead of B street, where most people expected him, and passed rapidly to the train as dozens of hats were lifted in the air. He was in an especially cheerful mood. He spent most of the time before the departure of the train in chatting and laughing with Mrs. Roosevelt and Commander Cowles, his brother-in-law, who wore the full uniform of his rank in the navy.

Secretary Hitchcock and a number of other government officials were there to bid the President good-by. A large number of secret service men and detectives were spread about the depot, and several accompanied the party on the train. The crowd cheered the President heartily twice. As the long train pulled out of the train shed exactly on schedule time the President, with face diffused with smiles, from the rear platform of the train bowed low and repeatedly in acknowledgment of the cheers and salutes of the crowd.

Col. L. S. Brown, general agent of the Southern Railway, is with the party, supervising the trip over the Southern's tracks, and the train is in direct charge of Conductor W. M. Johnson, who has handled most of the presidential specials in recent months.

McKINLEY'S DOCTORS' BILLS.

It Is Now Said That They Will Not Exceed $25,000.

Buffalo, N. Y., (Special).—It may be authoritatively announced that the amount to be paid to the surgeons who attended President McKinley in Buffalo will not exceed $25,000.

Many statements have been made regarding the surgeons' compensation, some placing it as high as $150,000. This has been guesswork. The surgeons declined to send in bills, saying the question of compensation must be settled entirely apart from any bills rendered by them.

Edward L. A. Pausch, formerly of New York city, the sculptor who made the death mask of President McKinley, is now making the cast from which a bronze bust of the martyred President is to be molded. The bust is to be placed in the Philadelphia Postoffice, the employes of which ordered it from Mr. Pausch. It is to be dedicated on Memorial Day. The cast is one and one-half life size.

Wages of 2,000 Men Increased.

Pittsburg, (Special).—The structural iron and bridge workers, of whom there are 2,000 in the Pittsburg district, will be granted an increase in wages amounting to 25 per cent. and an eight-hour day after May 1. The decision is a result of the visit here of Joshua Hatfield, of New York, president of the American Bridge Co. at Pencoyd, and his conference with D. F. McIntyre, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. The concession will probably prevent a strike, which, it is said, would have involved New York, Chicago and other large cities.

Rope Industry in Danger.

London, (By Cable).—The English ropemakers will shortly submit to the Foreign Office protesting against the action of Congress in abolishing the export duty on Manila hemp shipped direct to the United States, but enforcing the tax on hemp shipped to other countries. This discrimination, the English ropemakers say, entails on them an extra cost of 30 shillings (about $7.50) a ton, leaving them on a "most unequal footing as competitors with the United States." The ropemakers state that "the American action constitutes a grave menace to trade."

Held a Pistol to Her Head.

Carlisle, Pa., (Special).—At an early hour in the morning Miss Kate Swartz, who conducts a small store in Wormsleysburg, this county, awoke and found a masked man in her bedroom. He placed a pistol to her head and ordered her to keep quiet, while an accomplice robbed the store below. For an hour he remained, and after his departure it was found that cigars, bananas and money had been taken from the store. The only other person in the house was an older sister of Miss Swartz, whose door was tied shut, and who was not awakened by the noise.

Thirty Buildings Burned.

Chicago (Special).—Thirty persons were driven into the street by a fire which destroyed a block of frame building on Cottage Grove avenue, between Thirty-ninth st. and OakWard boulevard Nine buildings were destroyed. They burned like tinder. Hetty Green is one of the owners of the buildings. The total loss is put at $20,000. There were a number of narrow escapes, but no casualties.

Applauded Murder of McKinley.

Rome (By Cable).—Enrico Malatesta, the Italian anarchist, was sentenced by a court of justice to five months' imprisonment for contumacy on account of certain articles applauding the murder of President McKinley, which were written for and published in an anarchist newspaper.

Three Reported Killed.

Des Moines, Iowa (Special).—Three men are reported killed and others injured in a wreck on the Chicago Great Western at Reinbeck, Iowa.

SUMMARY OF THE LATEST NEWS.

Domestic.

General Smith, commanding the American forces in Samar, in testifying before the court-martial trying Major Waller, stated that he never gave the Major power of life and death, and that his order about not being burdened with prisoners meant to disarm and release those prisoners not charged with serious offenses.

Albert T. Patrick, convicted in New York of the murder of William M. Rice, was sentenced to death by Recorder Goff. The date of execution was fixed for Monday, May 5.

Ernest R. Dickson, a 19-year-old youth, of Chicago, was arrested on the charge of working a confidence game on Chicago diamond merchants.

Henry V. Lucas, once the owner of $2,000,000, was discharged in bankruptcy in Chicago. He is working for a living.

James Whitfield, president of the Western Baseball League, committed suicide at his home, in Kansas City.

Six Princeton students were fined $250 each for defacing property in the town.

The wife of policeman McNernie, of Norfolk, Va., was sent to jail on charges of obtaining clothing by false pretenses.

Andy Minor, colored, was arrested in Newport News, Va., on the charge of causing the death of his uncle.

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee announced that he is not a candidate to become minister to Cuba or consul general.

John B. Scott, of Richmond, Va., drank a wineglassful of carbolic acid and died from the effects.

The remains of Major General Wm. B. Whipple were buried in Arlington Cemetery.

The officials of the Atlantic City Fire and Police Departments have not yet exactly determined the origin of the great fire. They are of the opinion that it started in the rear of the Tarlton Hotel, but whether from the explosion of a gasoline stove or an overheated kitchen range is not definite. There is also a theory that crossed electric wires may have started the blaze.

Eloise, the seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ella J. Furbush, of Philadelphia, who was shot by William H. Lane, colored, when the latter killed Mrs. Furbush and another daughter, is dead. Lane was convicted of murder in the first degree after a quick trial.

MANY FALL IN SOUTH AFRICA

British Losses Amount to 47 Killed and 210 Wounded.

SHARP ATTACKS BY THE BOERS.

The Boers According to British Accounts, Admit That They Lost 137 Men Killed or Wounded—The Action Occurred at Doornbalt Farm, a Few Miles South of the Scene of Gen. Delarey's Defeat of Gen. Methuen.

London, (By Cable).—A South African casualty list, just issued, shows that the losses sustained by the Second Dragoon Guards in their sharp rear-guard action with the Boers near Boschman's Kop, in the Orange State, the evening of March 31, were severe. Twenty were killed and 63 wounded.

The British losses in the engagement in the neighborhood of Harts River, in the southwestern extremity of the Transvaal, March 31, were 27 killed and 147 wounded. The Boers, according to British accounts, admit that they lost 137 men killed or wounded. The action occurred at Doornbalt farm, a few miles south of the scene of General Delarey's defeat of General Methuen. The Boers, who were commanded by Generals Kemp and Potgieter, attacked with great determination, but the Canadian contingent, which was the last to arive in South Africa from Canada—two squadrons of Yeomanry under Colonel Cookson and the artillery and mounted rifles under Colonel Keir—presented such a stout front that the burghers, British accounts say, were finally forced to retreat.

The casualty list shows that the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles had 9 killed and 44 wounded. The gallantry of the Canadian troops in this engagement attracts unstinted praise from the British press. These comments are striking in view of a recently printed notification that the attention of Lord Roberts, the commander-in-chief, had been drawn to cases where colonials who had been awarded commissions were treated as inferiors by the regular officers and otherwise made to feel that they were only members of the mess by sufferance. Lord Roberts, it was semi-officially announced, was making an investigation and intended to inflict serious penalties on any British officers found guilty of such conduct.

BLIND MEN FORM A COMBINE.

They Employ Attorneys to Secure $100 Each From the State.

Toledo, Ohio, (Special).—A unique combination has been formed by the indigent blind men of this city, numbering 15 persons. Their object is to obtain $100, which every needy blind man is entitled to by act of Legislature, from the County Commisisoners. Attorneys have been employed by the combination to lay the matter before the City Council, and if necessary, take it into the courts. The $100 has never been paid, and the individual efforts of the blind men have proved ineffectual, hence the pooling of their interests.

Under the act the trustees of every township are required to certify to the County Commisisoners the number of blind men in the township in need of assistance. The Commisioners are then required to make a levy to meet the obligations.

A Career of Ups and Downs.

Knoxville, Tenn. (Special.)—C. E. Coxe, formerly of St. Louis and Springfield, Mo., committed suicide in a hotel here. He turned on the gas and then cut his throat. Coxe was a promoter of zinc properties. While living in Virginia some time ago he became involved in a difficulty that resulted in his committing a murder. He was convicted of first degree murder, but his sentence was commuted to eighteen years in the penitentiary. After serving four years he was pardoned. He married a ward of Jerome Dickerson, a millionaire of Springfield, Mo.

Moeran, Mr. Marconi's attorney, said that the deal was not actually closed, but negotiations had been going on for a long time, and there was no doubt the contracts would be signed shortly.

Robbers Hold Up a Train.

St. Joseph, Mo. (Special.)—Passenger train No. 13, on the Burlington road, which left St. Joseph for Denver at 11.40 o'clock P. M., was held up three miles north of the city limits by four masked men. Railroad authorities say the robbers did not get anything. Ten shots were fired at Conductor Cox and Brakeman Gaut, but none took effect. The robbers opened the baggage car, but, finding nothing in it they wanted, they left and the train proceeded.

Murderer Hanged.

Trenton, N. J., (Special).—George Hettrick, alias Franklin Williams, was hanged in the Mercer county jail for the murder of John Krause in this city on Thanksgiving Day last. Hettrick, who had shown signs of collapse early in the week, walked to the gallows with firm step. The trap was sprung at 10.56, and Hettrick was pronounced dead 10 minutes later. Just before his execution Hettrick sent a note to Sheriff Atchley, in which he said he did not wish to see any newspaper reporters or to make any statement.

Near the $1,000,000 Mark.

The Department of Agriculture has issued a statement of the foreign trade of the United States in agricultural products.

It shows that during the fiscal year 1901 foreign countries purchased American farm products to the value of $952,000,000, representing the largest agricultural exports in the country's history. Compared with the record for 1900, the increase is over $100,000,000.

United States agricultural imports, on the other hand, disclose a considerable falling off when contrasted with the trade of the year preceding. These imported products were valued at $392,000,000, or $28,000,000 less than in 1900. The excess of exports over imports was $560,000,000. These figures do not include trade with Hawaii and Porto Rico, statistics of which were not to be had. In 1900 the agricultural imports from Hawaii and Porto Rico were valued at about $24,000,000 and the agricultural exports to those islands at about $5,000,000.

To Hurry the Powers Out.

It is learned that the Russian government has not asked the assent of the United States Government to the convention it has just concluded with China regarding Manchuria.

But the United States Government already has expressed its objections to certain features of the original convention, and as these do not appear in the published outline of the treaty provisions, it can be stated that this Government would not interpose any objection to the ratification of the existing document, even if its assent were necessary.

The provision pledging Russia to evacuate Niuchwang immediately the powers evacuate Tientsin is regarded as the test piece of the agreement and as calculated to hasten the powers in their withdrawal.

Cuba's Internal Revenues.

The Division of Insular Affairs of the War Department made a statement showing the internal revenues collected in Cuba during the six months ended December 31, 1901, as compared with the same period of 1899 and 1900. The total revenues for 1901 were $340,418, for 1899 $413,448 and for 1900 $327,427.

Until July 1, 1901, there was collected in Cuba a tax of 10 and 3 per cent., respectively, on passenger and freight rates, which yielded from July 1 to December 31, 1899, $140,723.53. Except for this tax there is a gradual increase in each period.

New Department Bill.

The House Committee on Commerce, after extended hearings on the bill for a department of commerce and labor, began considering the measure in executive session with a view to perfecting and reporting it. Tentative amendments were made, one including a bureau of insurance in the new department and another omitting the bureau of labor. These changes are still open to reconsideration, but the opinion and votes indicated that the changes would be made before the bill is reported.

The British Camp.

The time of the last Cabinet meeting was taken up almost entirely with a communication which the President has received from the Governor of Louisiana protesting against the camp alleged to be maintained in that State by agents of the British government for the purpose of supplying mules and teams to the British army in South Africa.

The President has directed an investigation into the facts and the law bearing upon the question.

Representative Sultzer introduced in the House a resolution asking the Secretary of State to inform the House of the nature of the Governor's report.

A Victory for Labor.

The House Committee on Labor ordered a favorable report on the eight-hour bill, so-called, providing that in every contract for work for the Government it shall be specified that the work is to be done on an eight-hour basis.

This measure has been strongly supported by labor organizations and opposed by the large armor, shipbuilding, ordnance and other concerns having contracts with the Government. The favorable report was ordered without division.

Clayton's Conduct Justified.

Both the President and Secretary Hay have accepted the explanation made by Amabssador to Mexico Powell Clayton regarding the charges made against him.

Capital News in General.

The Attorney General of the State of Washington asked leave to file a bill in the United States Supreme Court to prevent the merger of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern Railroad Companies.

The House and Senate adopted the conference report on the bill to repeal the war taxes, and the bill was sent to the White House.

The national committee decided to recommend that the date for the inauguration be changed from March 4 to the last Thursday in April.

AMERICA WILL ANNEX BRITAIN

Andrew Carnegie Prophesies That Our Country Will Take It All In.

ENTER THE UNION AS 6 OR 8 STATES

Scotland, Ireland and Wales Each One, and England Divided Into Two, Perhaps Three—"Of Course," Says Mr. Carnegie, "This Is Looking Ahead"—But It Is a Look Ahead That Cecil Rhodes Had Taken.

New York, (Special).—Andrew Carnegie expressed his admiration of the will of Cecil Rhodes, but said the provisions did not surprise him greatly, as he was somewhat acquainted with the ideas of Mr. Rhodes.

"The will of Cecil Rhodes is great," he said, "but I am not altogether surprised. You see, Mr. Stead knew him well, and I had heard through him something of the ideas of the man. He saw as I see, and as I published 12 years ago, that if the other branch of the English-speaking race was not to be pushed into the eddy it must become part of the larger branch.

"Green, the historian, tells us that the future of our race is to be found not on the banks of the Thames or the Clyde, but on the Hudson, the Ohio and the Mississippi. Lord Rosebery has just stated, in his rectorial address to the students of Glasgow, that, for the sake of a united race, he would be willing that the capital be transferred to Washington. He is one of Cecil Rhodes' trustees, very properly. He is also a trustee of the Carnegie fund, very properly, and I suspect he does not differ much from the race imperialists.

"There is no other destiny possible for the United Kingdom. She must look across the Atlantic to the children of her own blood and finally enter the Union as six or eight States—Scotland, Ireland and Wales, each one, and England divided into two, perhaps three.

"Of course, as I said in my article upon this subject twelve years ago, this is looking ahead. But it is a look ahead that Cecil Rhodes had taken.

"As for the value of the scholarships and whether they will be utilized, we must await further details. But the idea is in the right direction—a drawing of the English-speaking race together not only for its own good, but, as I believe, for the good of the world."

BANK ROBBERS MAKE HAUL.

Got $16,000 From the State Bank at Ruskin—Bloodhounds on Their Trail.

Beatrice, Neb. (Special.)—The State Bank at Ruskin, Neb., was robbed of $16,000 in cash at midnight. The robbers, supposed to be five in number, gained an entrance to the bank by prying up a window and then opening the front doors of the building.

Nitro-glycerine was used to blow the safe, and the explosion blew both doors off their hinges and made access to the money box easy. The robbers took all the currency and paper money in the bank.

The noise of the explosion aroused the inhabitants in time to see three of the robbers making off to the westward. Bloodhounds were secured by special train from Beatrice and at once took up the trail of the three robbers to a spot about half a mile west of Ruskin. The dogs were then brought back to the bank and took the trail of the other two men to the southwest.

The two trails finally met about a mile west of Ruskin, where the entire party had mounted horses. The dogs were then put on a trail in a westerly direction, and it is thought that the robbers were riding in an effort to reach the main line of the Burlington Railroad toward Denver.

South Dakota's Suit.

Raleigh, N. C., (Special).—A quarter of a million of dollars is involved indirectly in the suit of the State of South Dakota against the State of North Carolina lately begun in the Supreme Court of the United States. The answer of the defendant State was filed in the Supreme Court in Washington. The gist of the answer is an averment that the bonds on which the suit is brought do not constitute a valid obligation for which the State of North Carolina is liable. Ground is also taken that the facts in the case do not bring it within the provisions of the constitution relating to legal controversies between States of the Union.

Bible Key to Millions.

Middletown, N. Y., (Special).—Unearthed among a lot of rubbish in the loft of an old barn in Huron county, Ohio, where it had been hidden from view for many years, an ancient Bible bids fair to establish the claims of many heirs to an estate of millions. According to the statement of M. J. Dunham, of this city, who has just returned from a trip through the West and Northwest in an effort to locate the descendants of Absalom Case, the large estate of the late Leonard Case, of Cleveland, Ohio, will eventually enrich hundreds of his descendants, owing to the discovery of the Bible mentioned.

Oyster Combine Proposed.

Boston (Special).—A movement is on foot to form an oyster combine. A delegation of dealers from Norfolk, Va., has been in this city the past week to interest some Boston men who have houses in Norfolk in a combination in that city One of the dealers having a house in Norfolk said the proposed combine was similar to the National Fish Company, which was started in this city a year or two ago. "The object of the new combination," he said, "is to protect prices and prevent cutting."

Her Digestion Dormant.

New Brunswick, N. J. (Special.)—Miss Mary Martin, aged about 60 years, who lives in Metuchen, suffers from some malady that the local physicians admit baffles them. They are uncertain whether it is an imaginary ailment or a genuine affliction. For 24 days she has not broken her fast. Her sister and interested neighbors can do nothing to induce her to eat. If she were to swallow any kind of solid food, the physicians think it would afford no nourishment, as digestion is dormant. She remains remarkably strong despite her fast.

CRUSH AT FOOTBALL GAME.

Seventy Thousand People in a Mad Struggle for Life.

Glasgow (By Cable).—The casualty lists of the Ibrox Park disaster, in which a number of persons were killed or injured by the collapsing of a spectators' stand while the international football match was in progress between England and Scotland, have been completed.

They eclipse all reports and estimates which were previously current. The disaster has resulted in the death of 21 persons and the injury of 250. Nearly 200 of the latter were so seriously hurt that they were taken to infirmaries for operations and treatment. One hundred and fifty of them remain in the infirmaries.

A large proportion of the injured had limbs broken, bodies crushed and heads gashed. Several more deaths will undoubtedly result from the most critical cases of fractured skulls.

The infirmaries are besieged by friends and relatives of the victims. Heartrending scenes are witnessed when the names of those who die are posted outside the buildings.

The action of the authorities at Ibrox Park in averting a more general panic by permitting the game to proceed while they encouraged the impression of the crowd within the inclosure that the accident was not so direful, is now generally commended. The incongruity of the yells of applause mingling with the groans of the struggling sufferers will never be forgotten by those who witnessed the scene.

SACATION INDIANS STARVING.

White Ranchers Said to Have Cut Off Their Water Supply.

Phœnix, Ariz., (Special).—Twenty thousand Indians on the Sacaton reservation are suffering from famine, which, if allowed to continue, is certain to result in fearful mortality among the Pima and Maricopa tribes.

Agent Hadley is here to secure temporary relief for the Indians and to urge that petitions be sent to Congress asking the Washington authorities to provide means to avert the disaster which, he says, is sure to come unless the Indians are given water and supplies.

White ranchers above the reservation are said to have diverted all the water, and the Indians have had none for many months. They are abandoning their ranches and their cattle are dying by scores for lack of feed. Relief has been sent from here and the desired petitions are going forward to Washington.

CONNECTED WITH ESQUIMALT.

Welland Prisoners Said to Have Originated Previous Plot.

San Francisco, (Special).—The Call says: "Information furnished in this city and secured in other localities indicates that the men alleged to have been detailed to destroy the forts at Esquimalt in 1990 are now life prisoners in the Kingston (Ont.) penitenetiary for attempting to blow up the Thorold Lock of the Welland Canal some weeks after the projected attempt on the Esquimalt fortifications.

"They were convicted under the names of John Nolan, John Walsh and Karl Dallman, though the statement has been published that Dall is in reality Luke Dillon, a former Irish Nationalist leader. Dillon's friends, however, have said that he was drowned in Ireland."

Heavy Storm in Texas.

Prattville, Texas (Special.)—A destructive storm swept over this place, and for 20 minutes there was a perfect flood of rain and hail. Along the path of the storm, which resembles a railroad track, not a leaf nor a particle of fruit is left. Hail two inches deep is still lying on the ground. The Methodist church was blown from its foundation. A store was wrecked and the goods scattered for miles.

To Run Mines in Virginia.

Albany, N. Y. (Special.)—The Steel Ores Company of New York was incorporated here. Its capital stock is $500,000, and it will do a general mining and steel manufacturing business, and conduct its operations principally in Augusta county, Virginia. The directors are Cornelius P. Kitchell, C. T. Plant, J. R. R. Brach, Graham Summer, W. D. Makepeace, John T. Smith and F. N. Clark.

Three Burned to Death.

St. Louis, Mo., (Special).—Mrs. Wm. W. Ward, 32 years old, and her baby girl, Mabel, and a son, Miles, aged 5 years, were fatally burned by the explosion of a kerosene lamp, from which the mother was pourning oil into a heating stove at her home. Mr. Ward, who is an invalid, was so seriously shocked by the accident that he, too, is in a dangerous condition.

Triple Alliance Defensive.

Vienna (By Cable).—With a view of giving a fresh proof of the pacific tendency of the triple alliance, the powers interested have decided, after the completion of the new treaty, to publish a statement pointing out the unchanged defensive character of the alliance, which is operating only in connection with European questions.

Bodies Found on San Juan Hill.

Santiago, Cuba, (Special).—Workmen who were engaged on the park improvement of San Juan Hill excavated the bodies of three American soldiers 200 feet from a Spanish trench. They were evidently killed during the charge, and probably belonged to the Ninth or Seventeenth Infantry. The bodies of 93 Spaniards have been exhumed while restoring the trenches.

Four Persons Burned to Death.

Boyne City, Mich., (Special).—The frame dwelling of Dr. Boyne, and occupied by two families, was totally destroyed and four persons were burned to death. Mrs. Littlefield and her two children were from Spokane, Wash. At the time the fire broke out all the persons in the house were upstairs asleep. The crackling of the fire awakened the sleepers, but only Mr. Thompson escaped. The loss on the building is estimated at $3,000; parially insured. The origin of the fire is not known.

FOR THE LADIES

WOMEN IN CIVIC AFFAIRS.

A movement now under way in England, to make women eligible to serve in the London County Council and the twenty-eight borough councils in the metropolis, is said to be headed by the Countess of Aberdeen.

DON'T WEAR MOURNING.

To all of womankind white is almost universally becoming. Children should never wear mourning, and girls and young women if they wear it should do so for only a short time. I do not approve of the conventional mourning dress for any one. If one must wear it, however, I beg the discarding of the hideous crape veil. It is heathenish. The world is a sad enough place without women walking around in crape veils.—Woman's Home Companion.

CHARMING COLOR SCHEME.

A hat with a flat and rather broad crown is made of that soft chiffon-like straw with satiny strands intermingled. It is an exquisite shade of tan (we called it biege last season). and the brim is faced with white chiffon folds. Well back at each side is a bow of white Louisine ribbon, the ends falling over the hair. From each of these graceful bows springs a bunch of grapes. Those at the left are deep blackish purple, and those at the right the pale wine color with a reddish cast. Both extend forward, resting flatly on the hat, and are made yet more effective by the introduction of a bit of foliage. This is exquisitely rich in effect.

NOVELTIES FOR THE HAIR.

All the spring novelties for the hair are here and chief among them are jeweled topped tucking combs from the ends of which fall a shower of brilliants. or stiffly upstands a diamond feather. The most charming tiaras of cut jet and brilliant have come over from Paris with dog collars of the same. A tiara and dog collar is usually sold as a set and sometimes a set includes also a single bracelet for the upper arm made of broad plates of shining jet linked by a row of flashing paste jewels.

Another most coquettish hair ornament for the evening consists of three fine gilt chains, threaded at short intervals with pretty real formed pearls. The ends of the chains are fastened to the tops of two long gilt hair pins that are caught deep into the coils and pinned low on the back of the head. The pearl strung chains are drawn like a fairy net over the coils and display themselves and the hair beneath to marked advantage.—Washington Star.

LIVELY WIDOWS IN MOURNING GARB.

It is probable that the Chinese, with their hideous funeral rites, which seem most heathenish to us, would regard our custom of showing love and respect to our dead as being equally absurd. And when we look the matter straight in the face, is it not true that the great majority of American mourners by their unseemly conduct convert their sorrows into satires? An observing women says:

"Last spring, during the annual visit of the circus to Madison Square Garden, I saw three young widows enter the front of the building. They were gowned in the most correct mourning. They had a box at the middle of one side of the Garden, and as they were a little late they stepped down into the tanbark ring and started around the arena. They had only taken a few steps, when the signal was given by the band for the procession—'the grand hippodrome display'—to enter at the opposite end of the Garden on its way around the arena. The elephants, with their red and gilt keepers, appeared. The people cheered wildly, the band blared, the widows simultaneously threw back their heads like excited thoroughbreds, snatched up their swirling skirts and ran, screaming with the delight of childen and kicking up a perfect cloud of tanbark with their French heels.

"It was quite evident they had forgotten everything except the hugh grey elephants that were tramping steadily behind them. In their eagerness to get out of the way their long, black, fluttering veils were unheeded.

"I was thankful that their husbands could not see them.'—New York Tribune.

THE CARE OF UMBRELLAS.

A handsome umbrella is well worth taking care of and to do this requires a little thought and good judgment. Many persons greatly admire the closely-rolled umbrella and consider the umbrella carried without a closely-fitting cover is careless in apperaance and shows a want of tidiness. This is all very well as far as appearances are concerned, but it is undoubtedly very hard on the wearing qualities of the umbrella. If you consider it absolutely necessary to confine your umbrella to a close-fitting cover when in the street do, I beg of you, if you have any regard for the long life of your umbrella, remove the cover as soon as you enter the house and do not again put on the cover until the umbrella is ready to make its appearance in the street again.

When an umbrella has been out in a rain it should be placed to drain immediately upon your return to the house. and it should be drained in the position in which one carries an umbrella. To do this place the handle of the umbrella on a small stand that will not retain the drippings and there let it remain until thoroughly dry. If placed upside down the moisture will soak into the leather at the top and will gradually tend to rot it out, so the life of an umbrella will be greatly shortened. Each person should possess his or her own umbrella and should keep it as a piece of personal property; not be required to loan it to everyone who is careless enough to go out in the rain without proper protection from the storm. When one has found it necessary to borrow an umbrella one should at once return it to the owner.

Many persons are extremely fond of having handsome handles for their umbrellas and this very pleasant fad may be carried out without very great expense. Handsome handles may be purchased separate from the umbrellas and may be adjusted without trouble, providing care is taken when selecting the handle to secure those of a similar make to the umbrella. In some umbrellas the screw is fastened to the stick; in others the stick has a hollow place for the reception of the screw. In every case it is wise to select an umbrella from which the handle may be removed, as then the umbrella may be easily packed if necessary in a much smaller space than when the handle is stationary.—Philadelphia Record.

PHOTOGRAPHIC TEAS.

"Photographic Teas" are the latest craze in the way of afternoon parties in London. Each guest is expected to bring a photograph of him or herself in infancy—the earliest that can be procured—and the entertainment is derived from the efforts of the company to identify the likeness. The usual custom is to pin all the photographs on to a large square board and number them. Each guest is then given a list to fil up, and the one who has the largest number of correct guesses gets a prize from the hostess. There is a fine for making an error in regard to the sex.—Chicago Tribune.

ADVICE TO SISTERS.

If you are a little sister, love your dollies, by all means, but do not give them all your love, for if you do so, and your brother should happen accidentally to break one of them, you will not be able to forgive him so readily as you should. Dolls are very good things in their way, but brothers are more likely to repay kind attention.

If you are a big sister, don't be too strict with your little brothers. Try and be patient with what you are blessed with. You know you go to bed later than they do, and when the house is silent and still, just think how solemn and sad it would be were the days to be as quiet as the evenings.

If you are a grown-up sister, do not look for all the devotion and all the love of your grown-up brothers. If [redacted] fect that beauty is only skin deep.

Do not be ashamed of dusting the drawing room or darning your brother's socks. If you are musical, see to it that your performances are really meritorious ere you get into the way of wearing out your brother's nerves evening after evening on the parlor piano. Some brothers are so self-effacing as to say they enjoy a sister's playing when in reality they do not.—New York World.

FASHION NOTES.

Bodices at the back appear to be worn more than ever.

Black is to trim everything, and black and white will be considered a more than ever ideal combination.

Collarettes, fichus, and berthas are features of practically all the smartest designs in spring bodices and coats.

Dainty odd waists, by the way, will be much worn with skirts of white veiling and albatross as well as pique or duck.

Belts for spring wear are either one thing or the other, narrow leather and masculine or softly draped and fastened with the dainties of buckles.

Pongee, both in its natural color and dyed in many novel tints of sage green, ciel, pink, cherry red, and mauve is very fashionable fabric this spring.

Among the advance dress fabrics for the making of summer gowns are displayed double-width India mulls with various back grounds of pale sea-green, forget-me-not blue, cream, tearose, yellow, etc.

Deep, round collars of lace and embroidery represent another fashion that will be carried along into the new season. Some pretty examples of such collars are made of alternate rows of panne and lace embroidery, finished with an edge of lace points.

For general wear mohair or mohair brilliantine will be greatly favored. Black, blue, gray and brown will be equally fashionable colors. The black jacket with facings of white mohair will be greatly used for its simplicity, while those made with silk or moire revers will be more elaborate, having a trimming of gold or silver braid at the edge.

In London there are eighty-one pneumatic tubes for the dispatch of postal packets, and their aggregate length is thirty-four miles.

For the Housewife.

HOW TO KEEP CEREALS.

Cereals are very apt to grow musty, so the economical housewife buys them in small quantities, and after the package has been opened, keeps the remainder in a glass jar with screw top.

HOLDERS FOR FANCY CANDLES.

Fancy candles, instead of being set in the usual metal socket, are some of them inserted in a crepe paper rose or lily, which fits snugly into the candlestick. This pretty idea admits of many changes of flowers to match the popular fancy candles in carrying out a desired color scheme in table decoration.

THE CARE OF LAMPS.

Lamps are both useful and ornamental, but a certain amount of care must be given them, so that they will do their utmost toward lighting the home in the best manner. Daily care should be given to them, and to do this in the best manner there should be certain tools provided for the purpose, and these tools should not be used in any other way..

First of all provide a tray sufficiently large to hold all the necessary articles, as well as two or three lamps. Clean cloth for washing the chimneys and one for drying them, some soft paper for rubbing off the charred portion of the wick, a pair of sharp scissors for cutting loose threads and a box containing two or three wicks that have been boiled in vinegar, so that they are ready for immediate use.

Irregular care is almost as bad as no care at all. The lamps should be kept perfectly clean, and they should be filled every day without fail, or else they should not be used. A partly-filled lamp is the lamp that is apt to explode. If the wick is rubbed clean every day there will not be danger of broken or smoked chimneys, that will surely occur with a neglected lamp.

TAKING OUT SPOTS AND STAINS.

To war successfully with spots and stains one needs a simple armament and a little knowledge.

This is some part of the knowledge: Fruit stains of every sort will do no harm to things washable if they are wet through with alcohol before going in the wash. Very big stains will come out if they are first wet with cold water and then have a stream of boiling water, poured through them for two or three minutes. Stains upon silk or stuff, or a fancy frock beyond laundry possibilities, may be got rid of thus: Fold a cheese cloth square thickly and lay it smooth upon the board. Over that stretch the stained stuff smoothly, right side down. If there is a lining, rip it so as to get at the under side. But first brush not only the stain, but the whole garment thoroughly, so as to remove all the invisible dust and prevent the cleansing from leaving an ugly circle, worse than the spot itself. Pour a little alcohol through the spot and dab the place hard with a soft, clean rag. Shift the spot over a fresh place on the cheese cloth, and pour on more alcohol using just enough to drench the spot itself without spreading. Do this two or three times then look on the right side.

An acid stain has most likely taken out the color. Most times it may be brought back by sponging the right side very delicately with ammonia spirit. But it is well to try the ammonia first on a scrap of the stuff, as it may change the unspotted surface, and thus do more harm than good. Greens in wash stuff may be renewed with weak alum water, but here, as with the ammonia, try it first upon a scrap.—Washington Star.

TO CLEAN IVORY.

To clean ivory which has gotten of a brown or a blackish tint dissolve rock alum in rain water; boil this and keep the ivory in the boiling solution for about an hour, taking it out from time to time and cleaning it with a soft brush. Then let it dry in a damp linen rag, when it will be found thoroughly cleaned. Ivory is often bleached by the simple process of dampening it and then exposing it to the rays of the sun, a process which must be frequently repeated.

RECEIPTS.

Rice Salad—A simple luncheon salad common in a family where economy and the serving of nutritious food are carefully studied is made with cold boiled rice. This is masked with a little mayonnaise and served on a bed of water-cress, lettuce hearts or curly cabbage leaves. Over the top may be sprinkled a few chopped olives, slices of pickled red beets or chopped peppers.

Spinach on Toast—Spinach on toast should be oftener served than it is. Boil half a peck of spinach in salted water until tender, drain and chop very fine. Put one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan with one even tablespoonful of flour; mix and add one cupful of milk; stir till it boils and thickens. Mix this with the spinach and serve very hot on squares of toast.

Cocoanut Tartlets—Pare, core and quarter four good-sized tart apples. Line individual patty pans with a light paste, dust them thickly with cocoanut. Grate the apples on top of this, filling the pans quite full; dust thickly again with cocoanut, sprinkle over a tablespoonful of granulated supar, and put at once into the oven. Bake twenty minutes and serve hot.

CHINESE TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

Trials of a Man Who Sent Dispatch by Native Line.

In South China one of the weirdest objects that can meet the eye is the one row of rotting telegraph poles that runs from Canton north, through paddy fields, across swamps, over mountains, on which are two wires. Their disharmony with their surroundings, great as it is, is small compared with the disharmony of the scientific west with the crude arrangements of the interior of a telegraph office in one of the inland cities. The place is generally found, after much seeking, in a poor and little-frequented street, probably found there on the ground of economy. In the interior of the office the most conspicuous thing is the opium divan, where the clerks and the long-robed gentry gratify their desire for sleep. This encumbrance more than half fills the small room.

The office can boast of several clocks—perhaps to insure that at least one of them shall be going—which keep different hours. Gambling books were in evidence all around, and it was evident that not only smoking but gambling was a pastime. Three or four clerks strutted about after the most approved Chinese fashion, of whom one once knew a little English, which appeared to be rusty beyond use. However, when he had got hold of his English and then found what was the price of a telegram and got the money out of me, he wanted to commence a conversation in English before he sent the message. This tendency I cut off rather short. By this time every inch of space was filled up by those who wanted to see the foreign devil, and so the clerk had to swear at these with all the energy that he possessed. Indeed, here was the only thing that called forth any energy. By the time all this was concluded quite a quarter of an hour had passed. Yet the clerks were in no way conscious of any incongruities and were surprised at any impatience or irritation manifested on my part. But all this, funny as it is, pales before the experience of the next few days, when a telegram, because the person to whom it happened to be addressed was out of town, was sent on a two days' journey "on spec," to a German mission house, rejected and sent back again. On its homeward journey it was stolen by robbers, who thought it was a bank note.—North China Herald.

A Clear Case of Ingratitude.

"Sometimes it seems to me that it is pure waste of time, breath and vitality to try to be agreeable," complained a bright society girl. "People who never exert themselves to entertain other people seem to be more popular and to have just as good a time as those who do.

"For instance, the other day, in a book store I met one of our distant relatives, a cousin who lives not very far from the city and comes up shopping now and then. I didn't go out to her wedding some months ago, so had not seen her since her marriage. As her husband was with her—a very sensible, attractive workingman—I felt that I must hold up the family banner and be just as agreeable and intelligent as I possibly knew how to be. So I rattled away at a good rate, saying all the clever things I could think of, and some that I borrowed from other people. My cousin is a lively little creature; and she gave me, I thought, as good chatter as I sent. But the man seemed rather quiet, contributing only a very meagre smile now and then at our voluble conversational sallies.

"In about five minutes I parted with them; they were going away on an afternoon train. At the shop door I turned back to get a parcel I had left on the counter and distinctly heard the man say, with disgust and energy in his tone

"'Gee whiz, Clara! have you got any more cousins like that?'"

Jefferson as an Inventor.

Not many people know that Thomas Jefferson was a great inventor. His inventions were all of articles of every-day use. He devised a three-legged camp stool that is the basis of all camp stools of that kind today. The stool he had made for his own use was his constant companion on occasions of outings. The revolving chair was his invention. He designed a light wagon. A copying press was devised by him and came into general use. He also invented an instrument for measuring the distance he walked. A plow and a hemp cultivator showed that his thoughts were often on agricultural matters. His plow received a gold medal in France in 1790. Jefferson never benefitted financially by his inventions, but believed they should be for the use of every one without cost.—Washington Star.

Rival Discoverers.

It is rather amusing to notice that Mr. Tesla is among the unfavorable critics of Mr. Marconi's announcement. When Mr. Tesla made the sensational statement about a year ago that he had received some mysterious signals which he believed to originate from consciousness outside our planet altogether, Mr. Marconi was careful to warn the public that atmospheric electricity was quite able to produce all the effects on which Mr. Tesla was inclined to base a new theory of "other worlds than ours." Now Mr. Tesla suggests a meteorological explanation of Mr. Marconi's message. —London Spectator.

The annual meeting of the Council of the Pennsylvania Forestry Association was held at Haverford College in celebration of Arbor Day. Exercises were held in Alumni Hall. President Isaac Sharpless, of Haverford, welcomed the members of the Forestry Association and spoke on the subject of forestry. He described the devastation to the trees in the vicinity caused by the storm in February, and then dwelt on the general good results which the Forestry Association had brought about all through the State. The president of the association, John Birkinbine, of Philadelphia, spoke of the work of the association, showing that it had gradually developed and worked out new phases of the forestry question each year. He said it was important to maintain the forests, both from a commercial standpoint and as a protection from freshets in the spring. A poem was read by Dr. Francis B. Gummere, of Haverford College. The topic was the admonition of William Penn to his people in regard to the care of the forests. Judge W. N. Ashman, of Philadelphia, and Dr. A. G. Bolles, of the college, also addressed the meeting. The members of the association and their friends then adjourned to the gymnasium, where a reception was held and refreshments were served. About twenty trees were planted, most of them being evergreens. The planting completed the general plan of the tree planting done by the Campus Club of the college last year, when about eighty trees were planted on the lawn.

The Norristown School Board by a vote of 12 to 5 rejected Andrew Carnegie's gift of $50,000 for a proposed free library. The gift was made providing that the taxpayers raise $5,000 a year for the maintenance of the library. At a previous meeting of the board the gift was accepted. The matter was taken to court by several taxpayers, but the court decided that the School Board had the right to accept the proposition. An appeal to the Supreme Court is pending.

Frank Huzzard, of West Conshohocken, was arrested, charged with causing a fire which destroyed the stable adjoining the sanitarium of Dr. Elizabeth Winters, on the hilltop below West Conshohocken. In addition to the stable four thoroughbred horses perished, and carriages, harness, robes, blankets, a mow full of hay and all the equipments of the stable were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $3,000 or $4,000. There is no insurance.

Charters were issued by the State Department to the following corporations: The G. J. Buechler Cut Glass Company, Philadelphia, capital $15,000; Monongahela Light Company, Pittsburg, capital, $1,000; Swedish Provision Company, McKeesport, capital $5,000; Stanyon Engineering Company, Pittsburg, capital, $5,000.

A chime of bells was presented to the Glen Mills House of Refuge, which completes the furnishing of the Smith Memorial Chapel. The bells are the gift of Mrs. Mary A. Combs, and are in memory of her father and mother, John F. and Elizabeth Monroe Smith, the donors of the chapel. Each bell bears an appropriate memorial inscription.

Special Officer Schweitzer locked a gang of eighteen tramps in a freight car near Bethlehem Junction. Catasqua officers arrested two of the gang on the charge of breaking into a store in that place a year ago. The others were ordered to leave town.

A dog, supposed to be mad, attacked Mrs. John Toransky, near Latrobe, grabbing her by the arm. She was unable to shake the animal off, and her screams brought her husband to her assistance. He secured a revolver and fired at the dog, but the bullet struck his wife in the groin, inflicting what is believed to be a fatal wound. The dog still clung to the arm of the woman, but finally it was beaten off. Then the animal turned on the man, lacerating his arm. After a battle the dog was beaten off.

David Widmer died in Allerton from the effects of arsenic which he swallowed on Friday night. Widmer had been very despondent lately.

Joseph Mattis and Frederick Bouman, of Royersford, were discovered unconscious in their room in a hotel in Pottstown, having blown out the gas when they retired. Both were revived.

COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

General Trade Conditions.

R. G. Dun & Co's weekly "Review of Trade" says: Labor controversies continue to be the only seriously disturbing events in the industrial world, and make manufacturers conservative about new undertakings. Retail distribution of spring wearing apparel received a check from the more inclement weather in many localities, yet merchandise of most staple lines is purchased freely.

The supply of iron and steel does not seem in any immediate danger of overtaking demand.

Widely divergent views as to the crop outlook resulted in a dull market for the cereals, and only small changes in prices. Wheat receipts for the week were but 2,074,699 bushels, against 3,357,135 last year, while exports from all ports of the United States amounted to 3,365,070 bushels, compared with 4,626,037 a year ago. There was not the customary loss in receipts of corn, 1,580,505 bushels, comparing with 1,602,027 a year ago, but Atlantic exports were only 204,356 bushels, against 3,064,481. Cotton is firmly held.

Failures in the United States the past week numbered 167 against 195 last year, and 22 in Canada against 29 last year.

Lived for Sixteen Months With a Broken Back.

Herman P. Transue, Lamar, died Wednesday of last week, just sixteen months after he had his back broken, aged almost twenty-eight years. He was entirely helpless below his waist, but had a partial use of his trunk and arms. He suffered little pain.

Everything possible was done to relieve the young man, but his case was beyond science. The funeral was very largely attended, and was conducted by the Knights of the Golden Eagle of Lamar, to which organization he belonged.

Deceased was a cousin of W. H. Bartholomew, of this place, who with a part of his family, attended the funeral.

Sabbath School Convention.

The Centre County Sabbath School Association held its annual convention in the Reformed church at Centre Hall, Tuesday. Owing to the very inclement state of the weather but few delegates were in attendance. The sessions were very intereseing and instructive; the program, with few exceptions, was carried out as arranged. The general features of the program were suggested by Mr. Hugh Cork, of Pittsburg, field secretary of the state association. It was unique and of a most practical character. It was very much to be deplored that more could not be present to catch the inspiration of the valuable suggestions thrown out. However, Providence arranged the weather and all should trust the matter in His hands.

Mr. Cork delivered a most instructive address at the evening session on "Planning and Teaching for Definite Results."

The county officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Rev. J. M. Rearick, Centre Hall; vice president, Rev. J. D. The following is the roll of honor of the Primary school, Miss Anna Bartholomew, teacher: *Roy White, Florence Mader, Alice Rearick, Verna Rowe, Frank Fetterolf, Ira Foreman, Robert Krumbine, William Luse, Sylvester Saul.

Married Tuesday.

The marriage of Miss Mary A Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Keller and Lewis H. Dalby were married at the home of the bride Tuesday, 12 o'clock, noon. The ceremony was performed promptly at the time set, by Rev. G. W. Kershner. A number of guests were present from Centre Hall and vicinity and Mifflin county. The couple have the best wishes of all their acquaintances.

Death of Robert McCalmont.

Robert McCalmont, connected with the firm of McCalmont & Co., Bellefonte, died after an illness of but a few hours from congestion of the brain, Tuesday morning, at two o'clock. He had been in about his usual health until the evening previous to his death, when he became suddenly ill, and soon lapsed into unconsciousness, from which he never awoke.

The deceased was born at Jacksonville, and was aged a little over sixty-two years. Miss Jane McCalmont and Mrs. Wm. Shortlidge, both of Bellefonte, are sisters, and James McCalmont, of State College, is a brother of the deceased.

Killed a Bear With Pine Knots.

A large black bear was killed on Wednesday by Messrs. A. J. Reichley, Wm. Blauser and John Weaver, about four miles west of Pat Garrity's, near the Underwood saw mill, in the Seven mountains. It appears that his bearship made his appearance to these workmen, who were without weapons or defense except such as might be gathered from the ground—stones and sticks. Bruin was assaulted; bruin was slain. Pine knots were the chief weapons of defense, and it is claimed by these gentlemen that they make a real good weapon when in tight quarters.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.

The Exercises Wednesday Night Full of Interest—Col. Fortney in His Element.

The first Centre Hall High School Commencement exercises were held in Grange Arcadia Wednesday night. The house was comfortably filled; both young and old being anxious to hear and see. The program, which follows, was executed in every detail:

Invocation, Rev. J. M. Rearick.

Claude K. Stahl—Essay with Salutatory—"The Development of English Language."

Helen S. Hosterman—Oration, "The American School Girl."

Music.

Nellie E. Kerlin—Oration, "The Palace Beautiful."

Ralph C. Boozer—Oration with Valedictory—"From Cave to Palace."

Col. D. F. Fortney—Commencement Oration.

Music.

Awarding of Diplomas—By the Principal.

Commencement Song—High School.

Benediction—Rev. G. W. Kershner.

Each of the graduates performed their part well, and each was better than the other. The manner in which they acquitted themselves was, indeed, creditable to the school and to the town, and is evidence that the money expended for school purposes in Centre Hall is not without good results.

Col. D. F. Fortney gave a happy talk on schools, touching the important features from beginning to end. His talk was practical and the line of thought expressed to this particular audience was particularly appropriate at this particular time. His address will not only have a wholesome effect on the graduates, but can not help but stir up a deeper interest in public schools in many of the parents, whose interest is woefully lacking.

Principal Ilgen spoke feelingly to his graduating pupils, and expressed a hope that he had created in them a desire for more knowledge.

The citizens of the borough of Centre Hall are today more in sympathy with school work than heretofore, and the first commencement exercises of the High School are directly responsible for such a condition.

The whole affair is entitled to a more extended notice, and the graduates to personal praise, but the lateness of the hour and other unavoidable conditions forbid it.

LIST CORRECTIONS.

The Reporter's mailing list was corrected this week. Those who paid their subscription should examine the label of their paper and see whether the proper credit has been given. "01" means July 1, 1901; "02", means July, 1, 1902; where other months than July are given, an abbreviation appears, the number following representing the year. If you have not paid subscription within a year, look at your label and see if you would not like to have it changed.

Senator B. K. Focht, editor of the Lewisburg News, a stalwart of the first order, is setting pins for nomination for governor in 1906. That's a long ways off, but if Elkin's is nominated and elected, it will only be a short step to Focht.

John Larimer, son of Rush Larimer, and Miss Emily Furey, daughter of Morris Furey, both of Bellefonte, were married Thursday evening of last week at the Baptist parsonage at Milesburg, by Rev. E. C. Houck. Mr. Larimer is a clerk in the employ of Katz & Co.

Roy White, who with his mother, stays with the family of J. W. Conley, has the marked distinction of being in attendance every day of the school term just closed, and that without being tardy once. Besides, Roy is youthful, this being only his second term of school, and again he had the farthest to go to school of any pupil on the Centre Hall school roll. Here is an example that should be patterned after—the boy, the parents and Mr. Conley, who made it his business to see that Roy was landed at the school room every day without regard to weather conditions and press of other work.

A Time for Everything.

There is an old adage that says we must find a time to play as well as a time to work. We leave this for you to decide for it is hard to find a rule that will work in all cases, as so many men are born under such varied circumstances; where luck is showered upon one, making life easy, another must toil to keep pace. So we will not attempt to solve a problem that enters into every one's experience, surrounded with an environment of its own; but one thing is very sure, we are going to sell you more goods and for less money than ever before. It is impossible to tell you of even one-tenth of our offerings, but will attempt to give you a mere sprinkling. Come and see the rest.
